BRITISH DRIVE TOWARD BARDIA, LIBYA; R. A. F. PLANES BOMB BERLIN; ITALIANS STILL HOLD SALUM

Three Persons Are Killed Near Pine Bush

Car Pierces Moving Van On Route 52

Occupants of Sedan Die; One Man From Long Island; Woman, Man of Walker Valley

Truckmen Hurt

Driver and Companion On Truck Treated for Lacerations

Traveling at a high rate of speed a sedan operated and owned by Sverre Bergesen, 55, of 68 East avenue, Valley Stream, L. I., was in collision with a moving van owned by William Morris of Middletown, about two miles west of Pine Bush on route 52 Sunday evening, instantly killing the driver of the car and his two passengers, Robert Walther, 50, of Walker Valley, and Mrs. Anna Larson, 49, also of Walker Valley. The driver of the truck, Itha Becker of Middletown, and his companion, Harold Worden, also of Middletown, were injured slightly as the two vehicles telescoped. Worden was thrown from the truck when the cab door opened but the injuries of the two men on the truck were confined to lacerations and bruises and they were treated by Dr. Henry Weiss of Pine Bush.

Delivered Furniture
Becker told Sergeant John Hopkins of the State Police at Ellenville that he had delivered a load of furniture at Ellenville and was on his way home when he heard a car traveling at high speed approach him from the direction of Pine Bush and then saw the car as it approached along a straightaway. It was traveling at high speed and was being driven to the left of the center line. Becker said he pulled his truck to the right as far as possible and as the approaching car continued to head toward his truck he pulled his truck off the road until it scraped a guard rail. The car struck the truck and the two cars telescoped. The impact tore the automobile to pieces and while Mrs. Larson and Bergesen were crushed in the car, Walther was thrown from the car and was found 75 feet away in a field. His left leg had been amputated in the crash and his right leg hung to his body by a thread of flesh. All three persons in the pleasure car suffered fractured skulls and other injuries including severe internal injuries. The accident happened on a comparatively straight stretch and was near the site of the accident in which Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Clark of Ellenville met with an accident some time ago.

Occurs After Dark
At the time of the accident, 6:15 o'clock Sunday evening, it was dark and the driver of the truck said he had lights on his truck and that as he saw the other car approaching he dimmed his lights. Coroner Jesse McHugh of Wallkill was called and made an investigation and after ascertaining that the accident had been accidental he gave permission for removal of the three bodies to the A. N. DeWitt Funeral Parlors at Pine Bush. Sergeant Hopkins also conducted an investigation and District Attorney N. LeVan Haver was notified of the crash and directed autopsies performed. The autopsies were performed by Dr. J. S. Taylor and Dr. Weiss. According to an investigation made by Sergeant Hopkins Bergesen on May 9, 1932, was arrested by Sergeant Tanner of Troop K, New York State Police, and charged with driving a car while intoxicated. Arraigned before Justice Ryan Weisman of Pine Bush a $50 fine was imposed. Bergesen had a summer home at Walker Valley. At first it was believed there were two people in the pleasure car but later the body of Walther was found where it had been thrown through the fence and in the field. There were indications that the trio had been drinking prior to the accident but this fact remained to be ascertained as a result of the autopsies.

Firemen Battle Blaze at Church of the Holy Cross

Fire thought to be due to a faulty chimney swept through the parish house of the Episcopal Church of the Holy Cross, Pine Grove avenue, yesterday morning about 8 o'clock, completely destroying the building and leaving only three unsteady walls. The two-alarm fire for a short time threatened the church proper, which can be seen at the right. Other photos on page 5.

Division to Make Bid for 1,500 Men; Visit City Tuesday

U.S. Army Equipment Will Be Used Tomorrow at Post Office; War-Time Strength Sought

In an attempt to obtain at least 1,500 men between the ages of 18 and 35 to enter the First Division of the U. S. Army, a military demonstration will be made Tuesday morning about 9 o'clock in front of the Central Post Office Building. Early tomorrow morning four trucks from Poughkeepsie will arrive in this city transporting two anti-aircraft guns, two anti-tank guns and two 37-millimeter machine guns.

Dissenters Gain

Mildred Palmer celebrated her 10th birthday last week and today she becomes a skeptic. Mildred, a pupil at School No. 4, says there is no Santa Claus. She hopes further research and maturity will help her to crystallize her feelings, which at present are in a state of flux. So as a new week begins the vote is: For Santa, seven; against, five.

Fire Destroys Church Parish Hall Sunday; Two Alarms Sounded

Holy Cross Church Damage Between $15,000 and $20,000; Blaze Began Around Chimney Is Belief of Fire Chief; Will Rebuild

Fire, thought to have started around the chimney, destroyed the parish house and hall of the Episcopal Church of the Holy Cross on Pine Grove avenue shortly after 8 o'clock Sunday morning, but through the efforts of the fire department the church was saved from destruction.

The fire loss is estimated at between $15,000 and $20,000, while the insurance carried on the building amounted to $5,500, according to church officials, who said that the parish house would be rebuilt, but the new building may be somewhat smaller than the one destroyed.

Discovered by Sexton

The fire was first discovered by Oswald Robinson, the negro sexton of the church. He was busy in the church shortly before 8 o'clock when he heard the crackling of flames and investigated. He found smoke arising from the roof of the parish hall adjoining the church and ran out crying "fire." His cries were heard by Firemen Joseph Cornelius and Howard Myer, who were on their way up Broadway from the Central Fire Station on the way to their homes.

The two firemen promptly turned in a box alarm, which was followed a few minutes later by a second alarm calling out additional fire apparatus and men.

Talks With Sexton

Fire Chief Murphy said today that he had talked with Sexton Robinson and that the latter had told him he had been at the church early that morning and had rung the 6 o'clock bell as usual and then had gone to the boiler room which is located in the basement under the parish hall. The hall and church are heated from this boiler room.

There was no indication of fire, Robinson told the fire chief, and the fire was not discovered by him until shortly before 8 o'clock when he heard the noise of the flames while he was in the church.

When the fire department reached the scene it was to find the interior of the church in flames. (Continued from Page Five)

Court Gives Nation More Power Over Electric Projects

Tribunal Also Gives Out Opinion in Tax and Music Cases; Will Review 'Jim Crow'

Washington, Dec. 16 (AP)—The Supreme Court broadened today the authority of the federal government to regulate the nation's hydro-electric projects.

In a decision by Justice Reed, the tribunal ruled specifically that the federal power commission may require the Appalachian Electric Power Company to obtain a standard federal license for its dam and power projects on New river near Radford, Va.

It was a 6 to 2 opinion. Justice Roberts wrote a dissent in which Justice McReynolds concurred. Chief Justice Hughes did not participate.

An attempt by Wisconsin to tax the dividends of out-of-state corporations doing business within the state was held constitutional today by the Supreme Court, in a 5 to 4 opinion.

Justice Frankfurter delivered the decision applying specifically to a challenge of the assessment by the J. C. Penney Company. Justice Roberts wrote a dissenting opinion in which Chief Justice Hughes and Justices McReynolds and Reed concurred.

Justice Frankfurter said that "the substantial privilege of carrying on business in Wisconsin, which has here been given, clearly supports the tax."

Men's Club Votes $50 to Holy Cross

St. John's Society Holds Special Meeting to Aid Fire-Stricken Parish

At a special meeting last evening of the men's club of St. John's Church a resolution was passed in which $50 was voted for the reconstruction of the Holy Cross Church parish hall.

The resolution, which was signed by Harry Simmons, president of the club and the Rev. Maurice W. Venno, rector of St. John's, reads in part, "that this club give to the rector and vestry of the Church of the Holy Cross the sum of $50 to be used expressly toward the reconstruction of the parish hall, with the hope that other organizations may be moved to help toward that end."

The motion also expressed the sympathy of the club to the rector of Holy Cross, the Rev. William A. Grier.

A copy of the resolution and a check for $50 will be sent to Father Grier.

Ambassador Arrives

Vichy, France, Dec. 16 (AP)—German Ambassador Otto Abetz, Adolf Hitler's representative in Paris, arrived here today with his staff.

Red Cross Makes Tentative Plans To Feed Europeans

One Ship Would Be Sent to Spain, the Other to Unoccupied France, if Program Works

Washington, Dec. 16 (AP)—The American Red Cross has made tentative arrangements to send food ships to hungry Europe—one to Spain and the other to unoccupied France—it was learned authoritatively today.

Actual departure of the ships depends on a successful outcome of negotiations in progress between the United States and British governments, and the prospects there were considered good.

While unwilling to exert pressure on the beleaguered British government for a general lifting of the blockade, the state department, it was learned, is seeking permission for an American ship to proceed to Marseilles with a cargo of condensed milk and concentrated vitamin products for undernourished children in unoccupied France.

The British government has ruled out any relaxation of the blockade for food shipments to countries occupied or dominated by Germany, blocking proposals for a large scale American relief program in continental Europe.

Permits Granted

Seeking a continuance of Spain's neutrality, however, Britain has granted permits for some food shipments from South America to Spain, where need already is acute, and is understood to be willing to sanction the projected $1,000,000 shipment of foodstuffs from the United States.

Since the American Red Cross is a neutral, humanitarian organization, Norman H. Davis, its chairman, is reported in informed quarters to be insisting that any Red Cross must go "to all who are suffering in Europe."

The Red Cross therefore has taken the position, it is reported, that if and when it sends a shipload of food to Spain, it must also be allowed to send similar help to infants and children in unoccupied France, the most urgently need food now.

The Red Cross has in this rendered assistance to Great Britain, Norway, Belgium, France, The Netherlands, Poland, Finland, Greece, Switzerland and Canada, it was pointed out, and offered assistance to Germany, which replied it needed no help.

Stores to Remain Open

Beginning this evening the Kingston stores will remain open until 9 o'clock to accommodate shoppers who are unable to do their Christmas shopping during the usual day-time hours. Members of the Uptown Business Men's Association voted to observe evening hours from today until Christmas.

French Deny Nazi Request to Send Men From Ports

Many Frenchmen Fear Germans May Take Over Entire Territory; Anglo Warships Harass Italians; Greeks Push Toward Tepelini

(By The Associated Press)
Britain's desert fighters were reported today to have driven across the frontier into Italian Libya in the 8-day-old battle of Egypt; R. A. F. planes bombed Berlin in "prolonged" attacks, and the Greeks launched a fierce new offensive toward Elbasani, in Central Albania.

A British general headquarters communique said advance forces of the counter-invasion army were "well across" the Libyan frontier. The goal of the British drive appeared to be Bardia, 25 miles inside Libya.

Strongly-defended positions around Salum, Egyptian port five miles from the frontier, were still held by the Italians, the communique acknowledged.

Adolf Hitler's high command listed four killed, 12 wounded in the overnight assault on Berlin, as well as "some" houses damaged, two hospitals hit and a suburban rail line "temporarily disturbed."

Nazi bombers countered with a raid on Sheffield, north England steel center, raining explosives on the city (pop. 500,000) while rescue squads still dug for victims buried alive in the wreckage left by last Thursday night's attack. The British Press Association said a large casualty list in Sheffield was "feared."

A few bombs also fell in London. Seven persons were reported trapped in bomb-smashed houses on the capital's outskirts and two children were removed dead from the rubble of their homes. In the Mediterranean conflict, Lieut.-Gen. Sir Henry Maitland Wilson's forces were reported scoring new gains against the hard-driven Italians.

Fighting Rages
Cairo dispatches said bitter fighting raged during the night in the Salum sector, five miles inside Egypt, with Fascist troops desperately attempting to make a stand in the rain following yesterday's sandstorm.

A British spokesman said it could be assumed that "some British forces have already crossed the border" into Libya, with RAF warplanes carrying the war ahead of the mechanized columns in bombing attacks on Bardia, key Fascist base 20 miles west of Salum, and on Italian air bases all along the Libyan coast. Premier Mussolini's high command, after finally admitting the capture of Sidi Barrani in "bloody combat from dawn to sunset," reported tersely in today's war bulletin:

"Enemy forces have continued pressure in the frontier zone in Cirenaica (Libya) under bombardments of our air force, which has inflicted many losses on armored formations."

Italy's high command commented only briefly on the Balkan war: "On the Greek front, new enemy attacks have been repulsed," it said. "In bitter fighting, enemy losses and ours have been considerable."

Information reaching London said the Greeks were pressing hard around Tepelini, crossroads town midway between Argirocastro and Port Valona. In the north, an Athens dispatch said, the Greeks dispersed an Italian counter-attack and "succeeded in making a general advance over a wide area in the mountainous region held by the enemy above Pogradetz, where the Italians had concentrated all their reserves."

Peasant Women Help
Greek peasant women reportedly toiled in the bitter cold to keep communications open and spare their men for actual fighting. With faces wrapped in shawls against the biting winds, the women helpers shovelled passages for troops through 4-foot snowdrifts in the passes.

"There were times when every man was needed for fighting," a Greek cavalry sergeant said. "Then it fell to the women to bring supplies and ammunition up the mountain sides."

"Many of them carried 70 and 80-pound packs on their backs up 3,000-foot peaks."

Italy officially acknowledges that her troops were fighting bloody hand-to-hand battles in an effort to save Libya from the British counter-invasion.

Remember Our Boys in Fort Dix Is Urged; Containers Are in Stores

Editor, The Freeman:

Christmas is approaching and we must not forget to remember our local boys who are serving Uncle Sam. Most of these boys are stationed at Fort Dix, N. J.

I have just heard by telephone from their commanding officer that the best way we could remember them would be by sending busses down to Fort Dix to get them and bring them home for Christmas.

There are approximately 175 local boys at Fort Dix. Seventy-five per cent of these men will be able to come home on next Saturday for the Christmas holiday, and the other 25 per cent will be permitted to come home after the first 75 per cent return to camp. The Boy Scouts raised $27.80 for the Fort Dix Christmas Fund last Saturday but many more dollars will be needed to bring our boys home to their families for Christmas.

In order to give the opportunity to those who wish to contribute to this fund, containers have been placed in various stores throughout the city. I urge all able to contribute, to be as liberal as possible.

Other communities are remembering their service men on Christmas. Kingston never forgets her boys in uniform. It is necessary to let our boys know that we remember them in order to sustain their morale as protectors of America.

William J. C. Buddenhagen, trust officer of the First National Bank of Rondout, has consented to be treasurer of the Remember-Our-Boys-at-Fort Dix Christmas Fund. All contributions should be sent to him.

Knowing your deep interest in the welfare of those who are serving our country, I appeal to you to help raise the money necessary to bring the boys home for Christmas.

Yours truly,
C. J. HEISELMAN,
Mayor.

N.Y.A. Maximum Work Efficiency Assured for Area

A maximum of efficiency is assured through recent revision of the National Youth Administration work projects for out of school young people, it was announced today by Milton H. Wagenföhr, area supervisor.

Stress will be given needs of the national defense program, it was pointed out, and the N.Y.A. will continue to remain readily adaptable to such needs as may be brought on by lack of employees in work vital to national defense.

At a recent Albany conference, state officials of the N.Y.A. urged upon area directors the importance of counseling with all N.Y.A. youth employees on the value of youths taking advantage of part-time educational courses to supplement their N.Y.A. work.

With the passage of the First Civil Functions Appropriation Act, under which money was provided for N.Y.A. work projects, an appropriation was made for the schools to provide related courses for workers to supplement the production jobs carried out during project hours.

"N.Y.A. is a work program," Mr. Wagenföhr said, "and we are concerned solely with giving youths the opportunity to produce useful goods, to acquire sound work habits, to experience the discipline of work, and to know correct safety procedure for the jobs they carry out. The fact that funds have been provided to enable schools to provide for related training, which N.Y.A. hitherto provided when such related instruction was not otherwise available, enables us to devote full time to perfecting the work programs."

But it was brought out at the Albany conference that N.Y.A. staff members also have a responsibility to see that youths understand the importance of taking advantage of the opportunities that will be provided by local schools under this arrangement.

They will counsel with every youth employed on the N.Y.A. project to make sure that youths understand that while this training provided by the schools is not compulsory, it lies in so closely with project work that only by enrolling in these additional courses can young people give their best efforts to fitting themselves for jobs.

More Local Work Centers

A total of 155 N.Y.A. youth are now working in three local work centers with 35 of these youths in the Kingston work center. Work in the three centers of this area consists of turning out articles of clothing and hospital garments, metal and machine articles, construction and repair of furniture, etc., for public agencies, the N.Y.A. area supervisor said.

Additional machinery and equipment has been installed in area work centers during the past month to help accelerate the passage of young men and women into private employment by giving them a background of experience such as industry requires in as short a time as possible. This new equipment will provide a much larger number of work stations for youths in work centers.

Because of these added facilities, and because a high percentage of youth employees are advancing in jobs in private employment each month, officials hope to abolish the present waiting list of unassigned youths by providing opportunity for project assignment for all eligible youths who want N.Y.A. work experience.

PORT EWEN

Port Ewen, Dec. 16.—The Candelin Bowling League of the Men's Community Club will meet tonight in the Reformed Church hall. Team 1 will play Team 3 at 6:45 o'clock. After 9 o'clock there will be open bowling.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Fire Company will meet this evening at 8 o'clock in the fire house. This will be the annual Christmas party with exchange of gifts.

All those taking part in the pageant Sunday evening are requested to meet promptly at 7 o'clock in the Methodist Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Beesmer and family motored to South Fallsburg Saturday. They were accompanied by Mrs. Beesmer's mother, Mrs. Nancy Decker, who returned to her home after spending three weeks with the Beesmers.

The Port Ewen Reformed Church Sunday school will give their annual Christmas entertainment in the church hall Friday evening, December 20, to which the public is invited. Santa Claus will be present and will distribute gifts to the children. The entertainment is to begin at 7:30 o'clock.

Members of the Reformed Church Sunday School are reminded to bring in their envelopes containing their gifts for the White Christmas next Sunday, December 22.

The Port Ewen Presentation Holy Name Society will hold its regular monthly meeting this evening at 8:15 at St. Leo's Hall.

LOTHIAN'S BODY LEAVES BRITISH EMBASSY

Escorted by a troop of the Third Cavalry from Fort Myers, Va., the body of the late Lord Lothian, British ambassador, rests in a Union Jack-draped casket on a gun caisson as it leaves the red brick British embassy in Washington for funeral services at the Washington cathedral. Every nation with diplomatic envoys in Washington, except Germany and Italy, was represented at the funeral. President Roosevelt, who was in Warm Springs, Ga., enroute home from his Caribbean visit, was represented by Stephen Early, White House secretary.

Legion Auxiliary Group Pays Visit To Castle Point

On Sunday afternoon, December 15, nine members of the American Legion Auxiliary, unit of Kingston Post No. 150, made their annual visit to Castle Point Veterans Hospital. They visited 41 veterans in a ward that they have adopted and two women World War nurses.

Each one was presented with a package of homemade cookies and cigarettes and also a personal gift.

They also visited Louis Ferraro of Kingston and William Ryan of Sawkill. When asked if there was anything special they would care to have sent to them, they said they were well taken care of but would be pleased to receive news from home from old friends who might care to write or come to visit them.

The next regular monthly meeting of the unit of Kingston Post No. 150 will be held Friday evening, December 20. Members are requested to bring gifts that were suggested at the meeting of November 21. They are to be sent to the hospital so that the veterans may choose something to be sent back home to members of families for Christmas.

Before any stains are removed or a garment is laundered, first test a sample of the garment to see if the color is fast. If a stain is hard to remove or the material and color are delicate, send the garment to a dry cleaner.

PRESIDENT AND HIS FAVORITE SCOTTY

President Roosevelt, smiling and in a jovial mood, pets his favorite Scotty during a press conference aboard the U. S. S. Tuscaloosa shortly after he arrived at Charleston, S. C., ending a cruise of nearly 4,000 miles of the Caribbean and Atlantic. The personal inspection assured the Chief Executive that sites for American defense bases in Jamaica, St. Lucia and Antigua were satisfactory, but skeptical about facilities in the Bahamas.

MODEL APPEALS, FREED BY JURY

On her appeal from a lower court conviction on a Lewdness charge, Shirley Warren, (above) 18-year-old Boston model, was acquitted by a superior court jury, which decided there was nothing immoral about a model's posing in the nude before a group of photographers.

Bank Crash

Evansville, Ind.—Farmer Nathan Taylor hurried into police headquarters with a story about money being stolen at a bank. "A bank robbery?" asked Sgt. Frank Freihaut.

"No, no," Taylor answered. "I said someone took $106 out of my pocket while I was in the bank. It's my Christmas money." Freihaut told him the police would try to get it back for him before December 25.

Feathering Their Nest

Omaha, Neb.—Six pigeons took a sign at an Omaha garage at its face value during a snowstorm. They marched into the garage behind a car, made themselves at home in a well-heated office. The sign outside read: "Easy parking."

Educational Jackpot

Oregon, Ill.—Oregon township schools benefitted from a slot machine raid.

Judge Philip Nye ordered that $242.76 taken from the machines be placed in the Ogle county treasury, the money to be used for school expenses.

Men Who Figure in History of Local Concern

W. C. KINGMAN

THE LATE PALMER A. CANFIELD, 1st

THE LATE PALMER A. CANFIELD, 2nd

GEO. W. CANFIELD

EDWIN H. C. ANGELL

Centered around the originator, Palmer A. Canfield, are others who figured in the progress and those who still serve today in what has grown to be one of the city's leading enterprises. Shown in the group above, left to right, top are: W. C. Kingman, treasurer and general manager, the late Palmer A. Canfield, originator of the company and the late Palmer A. Canfield, who was a successor in the business. At bottom, left to right, are George W. Canfield, grandson, and Edwin H. C. Angell, great grandson of the founder, who are associated with the organization carrying on a business which has expanded rapidly within the past few years.

Canfield Supply Company Approaches Century Mark

Business Started in 1850
by Palmer A. Canfield
in Small Loft Shop
Near Present Site

More than 10 years before the Civil War and in those days when the area which is now Kingston was shown on the map as three small and separate villages, a young Kingston tinsmith decided to launch upon his own business career.

This young man saw his future in terms of tin pans, pails, wash boilers and other household utensils and these he began manufacturing on a humble basis in a shop in Rondout where the present Freeman building now stands.

It was a start for an enterprise which has grown steadily until it now occupies a place of prominence in the region which it serves and its originator was Palmer A. Canfield, whose descendants have made an enviable business record through the momentum of this early start.

The originator of the present Canfield Supply Co. made his tin goods for the traveling traders who were known as "Tin Peddlers" and it was a familiar sight in those days to see the large, red wagons, with high seats, traveling country roads to supply the housewife with about everything from a nutmeg to a wash boiler or perhaps a dozen milk pans.

Sold Along Canal

The humble shop in a small loft in the downtown building was then conveniently near the local terminus of the old D. & H. Canal and Mr. Canfield also shipped his wares to points along this important water route.

A few years after his successful start in the smaller shop, the tin merchant built the three-story brick store at 16 Strand and 35 Ferry street and added a stove department.

In those days factory representatives did not go to see the dealer but Mr. Canfield usually made spring and fall visits to Albany and Troy where the leading stove manufacturers had factories. He also made periodical trips to New York to purchase tin, sheet iron and solder at a Water street establishment.

Then as this business, advanced through the work and successful business policies of its founder there were places for his sons when they were old enough to take an interest in its welfare and progress.

Incorporated in 1892

Following the death of the first Palmer A. Canfield, the business was incorporated in 1892 as the Canfield Stove Company and later changed to the Canfield Supply Co.

The late Palmer A. Canfield, son of the founder, became president and manager until he retired and the present manager, W. C. Kingman was named treasurer and general manager.

When water pipes were laid in the city streets, the company was quick to see the opportunity for further expansion and added a plumbing department and still later as electricity came into more common use the concern expanded again to become leaders in this line.

The Canfield Supply Co. was the first wholesale dealer in plumbing, heating and electrical appliances between Albany and New York and this fact had its effect in the growth of the concern to its present importance in local business.

More Space Needed

As the business continued expanding a warehouse was built on Spring street. This was later sold and the large wagon factory of the late John M. Mayer on Mill and Chambers streets, was purchased and remodeled as a warehouse. Then more recently the former factory of the Herbert Brush Co. at Mill street and Hasbrouck avenue was acquired for additional storage space.

Then to accommodate the rapidly growing electrical department, the four-story factory formerly occupied by the Dr. Kennedy Favorite Remedy business on Ferry street, was acquired and is now used as an annex.

George W. Canfield, grandson of the original founder, Palmer A. Canfield, and Edwin H. C. Angell, great-grandson, are associated with the concern as it is organized today.

Covers Large Area

This local supply company now distributes electric ranges, refrigerators, lighting fixtures, pumps, oil burners, heating and plumbing fixtures and general similar supplies in an area which extends throughout New York state and reaches into New England and northern Pennsylvania.

It is a concern which has grown, as so many have in America, from a simple start to one of prominence in the region which it serves, through the application of sound and effective business principles. It is one of substantial economic value to the community and has now reached the importance of a major local industry.

No Concern of U.P.A.

To the People of Ulster County: Some person or persons have spread rumors to the effect that the U.P.A. Stores had complained to the authorities against the playing of Bingo in this county.

Those rumors are absolutely false. The playing of Bingo or any other game is not the concern of the U.P.A. Stores.

If the person or persons spreading these rumors become known they will be prosecuted to the fullest extent of the law.

DANCING TO VICTORY

We hope never to say another mean word about male ballet dancers or their costumes. Those Greek "Ladies of Hell" and their flounced skirts and comic opera slippers have changed all that, with a smiling kick in the face for anybody doubting their virility. Illuminating comment on this subject comes from Hermes Pan, a movie director with a pair of good old Hellenic names, who tells how and why the Greek troops can lick invaders.

Every man in the Greek army, he says, is a masculine Isadora Duncan. They love dancing and have all spent long hours practicing the twirls and pirouettes of their classic dance. And so, says Mr. Pan:

"The Greek can handle a bayonet like no other soldier in the world. He leaps from crag to crag with the sure-footedness of a goat and, thanks to his training in the dance, he never makes a lost motion. I am surprised that the experts who try to interpret the war never realized the truth. I thought it was obvious. The Italians haven't a chance. Nobody has a chance against a Greek soldier, except maybe another ballet dancer."

A century ago, when the Greeks were subject to the Turks, Lord Byron taunted them with the famous lines:

"Ye have the Pyrrhic dance as yet;
Where has the Pyrrhic phalanx gone?
Of two such lessons, why forget
The nobler and the manlier one?"

Well, the Greeks no longer need their old phalanx, with which they could push through the enemy like a flying football wedge. Guns have abolished it. But the skill gained in their famous Pyrrhic dance, after more than 2,000 years of practice, gives them matchless skill with bayonets for spears. Also nimbleness to leap upon roaring army tanks and blow up the drivers with hand grenades.

SMART NEWSPAPERS

One of the interesting sidelights on the investigation of German propaganda in this country is the fact that the Transocean News Service, offered cheaply or free to American newspapers, found no takers. Editors everywhere smelled something not quite sweet about it.

In the first place, editors are naturally suspicious of anything offered free. The gags and stunts of the publicity men have taught caution. Then, too, as Dr. Manfred Zapp reported to his office in Berlin:

"Better than any other press in the world, the American press is informed of foreign political affairs in Europe through its own regular correspondents and the large news agencies. The American press prefers to publish only news of American origin—that it, news from American news agencies. Americans hold the peculiar notion that only they are objective, and consequently will not read news that does not sail under the American flag. They are avid for 'news' but it must come from American sources."

The Nazis, in making their plans for world domination, seem to have underestimated American intelligence at almost every point. Certainly American newspapermen may consider this a bouquet. They were almost all too smart to fall for the Nazi publicity.

AT HOME WITH A DICTIONARY

On the day after Christmas the grade schools of Illinois will hold the fifth annual state dictionary contest at Springfield. The purpose is to stimulate "a wider and more intelligent use of the dictionary," says the superintendent of public instruction.

Every city with an enrollment of 1,000 or more pupils in its elementary schools may have one representative at the state contest. There will be county representatives also, and there will be honors for towns and counties as well as for individuals. Local spelling contests are now taking place to determine representatives for the grand competition on December 26.

Emphasis on "intelligent use of the dictionary" is the unusual feature of the Illinois spell-down. Almost any child can be taught to spell words. Too many of them have never learned to use correctly the words they spell. They have missed the thrill of knowing words. If the Illinois youngsters not only spell but also turn to the dictionary for shades of meaning and word origins, they're really getting something.

CAMPAIGN EXTRAVAGANCE

Regardless of whether or not any money is spent illegally, the American public shows signs of considering the cost of election campaigns too high. A reaction against it, a little like the resistance to high pressure salesmanship, is developing.

Citizens ought to know more than which party a candidate belongs to. They should know something of his character and temperament, in addition to his views on the governmental affairs he will have to handle if elected. They should know whether he has good horse sense, too, for any public official must now and then meet new problems not considered during the campaign.

Such information, however, could be printed and widely distributed for far less money than is now spent by national, state and even local campaign committees and groups. One of these days, as the average citizen gives more thought to politics, government and public service, he will insist upon reform along this line.

"How many stars on a twenty-five cent piece?" "How many legs has the Constitution?" It used to be possible to deny citizenship to an alien applicant for not being able to answer questions of that type. Fortunately, native citizens couldn't be demoted for the same reason.

It isn't too early to consider New Year Resolutions. Advance practice might make it easier to keep them later on.

The trouble in Italy is that it's always the wrong fellow who resigns.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

PRISONERS AND WHY THEY COMMIT CRIMES

If you had opportunity to talk to a number of the inmates of a mental institution, you would find a large percentage who could and would talk with you quite sanely on many subjects. In fact it is true that the patients of mental institutions have as much brains as those of us outside.

Why are they confined to these institutions or why do they enter these institutions of their own free will?

They are in these mental institutions because they cannot live or behave in a normal manner in their homes, places of employment, or with the public generally.

The treatment of mental cases today is the quiet persistent study of why these individuals have such ideas, such behavior symptoms and the showing to them of how these ideas came into their minds and how to get rid of them.

Today, just as these mental patients are studied to find out why they have such behavior ideas, so is there a feeling that prisoners in reformatories, jails, and penitentiaries should be likewise studied and investigated so that the cause, the underlying ideas in their mind that drives them to commit crimes may be found. In other words, these individuals may be criminals but in many cases they are really patients who need treatment.

The Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania has recommended the formation of an organization made up of the members of the Philadelphia County Medical Society and the Philadelphia Bar (law) Association, to study prisoners right in the prisons and jails. An editorial in the American Medical Association Journal states that this joint medicolegal committee recognizes the need for education of physicians regarding the criminal, as well as the restoring of the criminal to civil life again.

The committee's plan includes, (a) the creation of fellowships which enables physicians or medical students to devote their whole time for a certain period to the study of criminology; (b) the use of jails and penitentiaries to study prisoners; and (c) tying up these fellowships to some institution of learning which will give this study the dignity it deserves.

It is not hard to see that not only will prisoners be helped, but there will develop a better understanding between physicians and lawyers when a case is being tried in the court room.

Neurosis

Do you sometimes find yourself "compelled" to do something you know is foolish? Do you fear some ailment exists although medical tests do not reveal it? Send for Dr. Barton's enlightening book entitled (No. 103) "Prisoners." It explains such conditions and how they are managed. Send your request to The Bell Library, Post Office Box 75, Station O, New York, N. Y., enclosing ten cents to cover cost of handling and mention the Kingston Daily Freeman.

MAPPING THE NEW GEOGRAPHY

Washington Daybook

By JACK STINNETT
Washington—The "road" as Broadway still fondly refers to the theatre of the hinterlands—may be dead as the Shakespeare school of acting, but not so far as Washington is concerned.

Like a good many small villages who nurse along a single opera house, the nation's capital has only one legitimate theatre—the National—but I have it on the word of Edmund Plonh, who has been running the place for years, that Washington still is the outstanding one-week stand in the country.

In spite of its name, the National is not a national theatre and the only way your taxes and mine might contribute to its upkeep is when Senator Spurge gives the gang from home a line party. However, it is something of a national institution, for it has been blocking traffic in E street, between 13th and 14th, for 105 years and was considered a capital landmark when Ford's theatre, where Lincoln met his death, still was a going Baptist Church.

I could start thumping through the pages of local history and tell you a lot about the National—now President Wilson practically never missed a performance there but on off weeks invariably went to Keith's, where he could catch the vaudeville bill; how President Hoover practically never set his foot inside the lobby, carrying little or nothing for the drama; of the days when Edwin Booth played Shakespeare there; and Mrs. Fiske...and the elder Barrymore.

Testing Ground
But that's water under the bridge and most of it has washed through every bewhiskered opera house in every city that dates to the days before movies.

To get up to modern times, the National is an outgrowth, in a way, of the Guild theatre in New York, but it plays other than Guild plays. It is, in fact, one of Broadway's testing grounds and in a season a score or more hopeful dramas will try their wings on a Washington audience from the National stage. Ethel Barrymore made such a debut here recently in "The Corn Is Green" and rang the bell as loudly as she did in state was negotiating to take it over and the city council was already paying part of the cost. In Georgia and Alabama the real success was a play called "A Raisin in the Sun" though the deep south is supposed to shun problem plays.

"Texas," writes Miss Flanagan, "was a hard nut to crack and we failed to crack it." But Paul Green's beautiful "The Lost Colony" grew out of the project in North Carolina. Miss Flanagan's account of the Sinclair Lewis-Jack Moffitt collaboration on "It Can't Happen Here" reads like a psychiatric case history, yet 21 simultaneous openings generated 78,000 lines of preliminary publicity. Incidentally, Miss Flanagan says part of the time there were 15 openings instead of 21. The project was not brilliantly successful in Iowa and a flop in Minnesota—yet in Chicago its successes were amazing—including the "Swing Mikado."

"Aren't," is the whole story. Miss Flanagan might be forgiven bitterness when her dramatic baby was smothered, yet her book is not bitter. Instead it is remarkably honest, a record of failure as well as success, of aspiration as well as inspiration.

Geneva.—A new plan for rating goat's milk proposed by Prof. J. C. Marquardt, dairy specialist at the State Experiment Station here, and outlined in a recent issue of "The Goat World," takes into account milk fat production as well as the amount of milk produced by animals competing in national and state scoring contests. Professor Marquardt has supervised many of these contests in the past.

'America's Defense Program Is a Flop' Is News Now That Presidential Campaign Is Over

By DAVID LAWRENCE

(Copyright, 1940)
Washington, Dec. 16.—The sad, sad truth comes out now that the presidential election campaign is over. America's defense program is a flop—not altogether, of course, but in terms of substantial help in the year 1941 either to Britain or ourselves.

The rosy, optimistic estimates of airplane production, namely an average of 1,000 planes per month by this coming January, must now be revised downward by 30 per cent.

The authority for this is not some critic of the administration, not some defeatist who doesn't want to see American progress, but a member of the President's own national defense advisory commission—William S. Knudsen. The facts were known here during the campaign. But the tongues of defense commissioners were tied unless they were prepared to help elect Mr. Roosevelt for a third term. And so America now faces the truth—it can be concealed no longer.

For weeks and weeks every disinterested person who really knows the defense problem and has had no interest in the politics of it or the need for camouflaging the administration's blunders has realized that the whole defense program here is built on the same false bottom that wrecked France and delayed England—the theory that everybody can have what he wants and nobody has to sacrifice anything.

The administration is particularly on the spot because it has baited and tormented industry with propaganda about lack of co-operation and with Russell-Overton amendments to conscript industry, but it has done literally nothing to speed up production on the labor side.

Labor was the administration's principal ally in the political campaign just closed and labor fought hard for the President because it believed he would protect "labor standards" which is just another way of saying that America's national defense and security must be neglected if a single modification of the demands of the biggest pressure group in America is in any way required.

The issue could not slumber long. It has already flared up. Even the army and navy advice are thrust aside. Their recommendations on labor matters are ignored. The drive now is on to force the army and navy to act in legislation which Congress never passed—stipulations that companies may operate only at the mercy of a government inspector who decides whether labor laws are being complied with irrespective of the fact that the labor laws require certain procedures through courts. The plea of an admiral in the United States Navy, moreover, for longer work hours is met with defiance and a new cry that the navy ought to be "democratized."

Now comes William S. Knudsen, production director of the defense program, to plead for the elimination of the Friday to Monday "blackout" and already the long-range guns of the leaders of American labor are turned against him for daring to say that work hours should be lengthened. Yet it was only last week that Herr Hitler, emphasizing the new importance of the work dollar versus the gold dollar, was being hailed as the man who would beat the Nazi regime in command longer hours of work. The rest of the world, he

Eastern Star Meets
Mrs. Florence E. Cotant was re-elected worthy matron and W. Herman Jordan, worthy patron of Highland Chapter, Order of Eastern Star, at their meeting Tuesday evening. Miss Rose Symes is associate matron; Mrs. Myrtle Jordan, conductress; Mrs. Minnie Schmalucke, associate conductress; Mrs. Olympia Cottine, secretary; Mrs. Florence D. Bliss, treasurer; and Kenneth DuBois, trustee for three years. Other officers will be appointed by the matron. Worthy Patron W. Herman Jordan presided for nomination and election, assisted by Worthy Kenneth DuBois, past patron and trustee.

Highland Chapter, Order of Eastern Star, met Tuesday evening, December 15, at the Little Art Shop, having taken back presses, etc., from the late purchaser. The Christian Endeavor Society attended a roller skating party at the Spring Lake rink Tuesday last as guests of the St. Remy unit.

The Sunday School of the Reformed Church will hold its Christmas entertainment in the church at 7:30 o'clock.

On Wednesday evening, December 10, the Woodstock Reformed Church young people entertained the young people of the First Baptist Church of Kingston at a dart ball tournament. The second scholastic game in a series for the Ulster county. The series of three games was won by the Baptists.

The Red Cross is asking for donations of food or money to be used in the preparation of baskets to be given to the poor of the community. They hope that the response will be as satisfactory as it was last year, or even that the amount will be greater.

The Choral Society will give a Christmas party in Town Hall Thursday, December 19. Games will be played and refreshments served, but the principal object of the get-together will be the singing of Christmas songs. They will be under the direction of Mr. Hermance of Saugerties.

Village Notes

Highland, Dec. 14.—The December meeting of the Women's Club of Southern Ulster has been postponed until January 3. The place will be announced later.

Fred B. Schmidt is a patient in the Benedictine Hospital, Kingston, where he is receiving treatment.

Mrs. Dominic Pape was hostess to the Mothers' Club Wednesday evening at her home on the North road. Those present continued the toy making and also made plans for a tea from 3 to 5 o'clock on the afternoon of January 3. This will enable the children of the primary classes in Sunday school to entertain their mothers in the children's chapel. Mrs. Arthur Burrell and Mrs. D. S. Haynes are backing Mrs. Pape. Mrs. Vernon Baker and Mrs. Lester Simpson are in charge of invitations; Mrs. Simpson, Mrs. Albert Wilkoff and Mrs. Bertram Dimming are perfecting the menu; and Mrs. Pape is serving refreshments.

azed Roads Imperil Traffic

untainous Sections Said
Be Very Dangerous;
State Gets Storm

traffic congestion was reported in various sections of the county this morning due to icy conditions. Ice tied up traffic on the Washington avenue viaduct early this morning when a truck came to grief on the grade. Winding operations were carried throughout the city and county during the day. At the sheriff's office it was reported that several accidents had been reported but no serious mishaps. Sections of Catskills were reported to be covered and travel extremely treacherous.

The rainfall was general throughout the state was prospects more tonight. In all but the extreme western and southeastern sections, state police reported ways dangerous for travel, the Associated Press reports. Rain which froze almost as fast as it fell stalled buses and automobiles in Albany, delaying work of residents. Pedestrian falls were frequent. A similar situation prevailed at Ennetady where motor vehicle traffic was stymied an hour, many motorists abandoning their cars.

Industrial Bureau Plans for Range Delegates

one of the biggest jobs for the Kingston Industrial Bureau this year was to plan for the entertainment of the thousand delegates to the annual convention of the New York State Grange here this week.

A peek behind the scenes at the work of the Industrial Bureau showed the groundwork that was necessary before the committee accommodations could relax and breathe a sigh of relief.

When it was first definitely known that the convention, the largest ever held in Kingston, was being held, the Industrial Bureau began a survey of room facilities in the city to accommodate the delegates.

It was quickly learned that the hotels had not the rooming facilities to take care of all the delegates expected. This made necessary a survey of private homes available where delegates could be lodged during the nights the convention was in session.

Householders in the city willing to accommodate a delegate were asked to get in touch with the bureau at the office in the city hall and before any room was rented as available, it was investigated by the committee.

By means of this survey the convention committee was in a position to know just what class rooms and where located that it should be assigned to delegates.

A number of delegates who had arrived in advance to attend the convention had arranged for accommodations at the Stuyvesant, Governor Clinton and the Rindland Hotels. These three hotels arranged to take care of several hundred delegates.

This left the problem of finding suitable rooms for the other delegates who had planned to attend. It was also necessary for the committee to have available rooms at suitable places for delegates who arrived in the city without ranging in advance for accommodations.

The Industrial Bureau convention committee had the assistance of the Grange reservation committee, and working together the two organizations were able to have adequate accommodations for every delegate who attended.

Several hundred delegates attending the convention from Ulster and nearby counties did not require accommodations for the nights as they motored back and forth to their homes.

The problem of feeding the delegates was also one that had to be carefully considered and a list of suitable eating places, including the hotels, was made by the committee. Included in this list were eating places located within walking distance of the municipal auditorium.

In addition to this list arrangements were made to serve dinner to about 90 of the delegates in the dining room of the auditorium.

John J. Egan of the Kirkland is chairman of the Kingston Industrial-Grange Convention Committee, and the other members are Albert Kurdt, manager of the Ulster County Farm Bureau, and L. Hanstein, chairman of the Industrial Bureau, Raymond R. Ross of the Governor Clinton Hotel, Hamilton, chairman of the Hotel Ulster, Stanley Dempsey of the Hotel Ulster, Harry B. Walker, president of the Central Business Association, and Harry Schickman, clerk of the Industrial Bureau.

All of the delegates attending the State Grange sessions this week were presented with artistic souvenir programs containing a historical and civic survey of the city of Kingston, and dedicated to the New York State Grange.

This program, in booklet form, contained not only views of many of the historic buildings of the city, but the complete program of the convention sessions, and a map of the city, together with a list of suggested eating places for delegates.

The program also contained the telephone number of the Industrial Bureau, and the location of the Grange convention committee which was located in the office of the Industrial Bureau in the city hall, where records were on file, every delegate registered, and where he or she was stopping.

A brief history of Kingston is also in the booklet. This was written by Thomas W. Miller, secretary of the mayor.

Fire Destroys Parish House

terior of the parish hall a mass of flames and heavy dark smoke. The building was constructed of brick with a frame roof and the part of the building closest to the church was of frame construction. The interior of the building was of yellow pine which was heavily varnished.

The fire shot along the cornice near the chimney and ran the entire length of the building, as the interior burst into flames.

Church Is Saved

While the fire was at its height the flames spread to the cornice and part of the roof of the church, but the quick work of the fire department in pouring tons of water on the fire saved the church.

So effective was the work of the fire department that the 10:30 o'clock Mass was held in the church.

In the rear of the parish hall and a few feet away stands the brick building housing the Manhattan Shirt Company. All of the windows of the first factory are fire-proof windows, but the heat was so intense that many of the window glasses were cracked and will have to be replaced.

On the second floor of the shirt factory some material lying on the window sills were scorched and charred by the intense heat, but the sprinkler system with which the factory is equipped was not set off.

While the firemen were fighting the fire in the church roof another squad entered the church and covered the altar and furnishings at that end of the church with the canvas fire covers with which the department is equipped.

Some water seeped into the church through a broken window pane, but the damage was very slight.

While members of the congregation of the church assembled for the 10:30 o'clock morning service the firemen were still busy at work on the fire, but the work did not interrupt the holding of the service.

Following the service workmen began the work of clearing away some of the debris, and the chimney, which was deemed unsafe, was pulled down. Fire ropes were stretched to keep sightseers from entering the burned building, and two special officers were placed on duty so that no one would be injured in case the standing walls fell.

When the fire finally was brought under control only the sidewalks of brick were left standing, and they were damaged to such an extent that they will have to be demolished.

After the fire was brought under control employees of the water department and Board of Public Works pumped the water that had accumulated in the cellar of the burned building and Sunday afternoon other workmen erected a temporary shelter over the boiler, which was said to be undamaged by the fire. The temporary shelter was erected over the boiler so that it could be operated to heat the church, while plans are made for the reconstruction of the burned building.

Attorney Robert G. Groves, senior warden of the church, said that a meeting of the vestry would be called for Thursday evening to consider rebuilding plans.

Rector Gives Statement

The Rev. William A. Grier, rector of the church, issued the following statement:

"The rector and congregation of the Church of the Holy Cross wish to express through the newspapers their heartfelt thanks to the members of the fire department, the police department, water department, Board of Public Works and Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation for their admirable handling of the disaster in which we lost our parish house by fire on Sunday morning. The parish house was doomed before the first alarm was sent in, but the church is virtually untouched. A few shingles on the roof nearest the parish house caught fire but that was promptly extinguished and with tarpaulins spread over the altar a little water got into the church. That was promptly mopped up and did no damage. We find it hard to find words to express our thankful appreciation for what has been done for us. We hope to make immediate plans for rebuilding. While insurance against fire has been carried it will not cover the cost of rebuilding. Offers of assistance have been made and we will have to appeal to our friends to help us in our distress."

Fire Chief Murphy said that he understood that the parish house and hall was erected in 1903. The building was widely used not only by the congregation of the church, but by other organizations, and many minstrel and other amateur shows were staged in the hall, which was equipped with a stage and all the accessories.

The hall was also used for the annual church fairs, and many private dances were held in the hall, as well as basketball games. In late years, however, the practice of renting the hall to outside organizations had been discontinued to a great extent.

The Rev. William A. Grier said Sunday that the week-day services will be discontinued temporarily, at least until the church can be heated properly.

February 2, 1914, the church also was threatened by fire caused by sparks from Christmas trees which were being burned in the rear of the church. At that time a large section of the church behind the altar was damaged.

Cars in Collision

Sunday evening about 8:15 o'clock, according to a police report, cars driven by Aida M. Coalport, of High Falls, and Michael Augustine of 72 Ann street, in an effort to avoid hitting a woman who ran out of the Old Tavern on North Front street, collided. The woman was knocked down, but claiming she was not injured she left the scene without giving her name or address. Both cars were somewhat damaged.

Wreckage of Parish Hall Is Shown

This is all that is left of the parish house of the Episcopal Church of the Holy Cross following a two-alarm fire yesterday morning that completely destroyed the building at a loss estimated at more than $15,000. In the bottom photo firemen are shown battling the blaze.

Normal School News

A number of the members of the faculty of New Paltz Normal School have participated in educational meetings in this section. Among those who have attended at various meetings are:

Miss Miriam L. Best, assistant in the English department, spoke during Book Week in early November on new books at the Wallkill primary and high schools. She has spoken about South America twice; once on November 18 to the Syracuse Alumni Association, and the other on November 27 at the Buttrick school.

B. H. Matteson, director of training of the van den Berg School of Practice, participated in a discussion at the luncheon given at the Capitol Hotel, New York city, on November 1, by the Southern Zone group of the New York State Association of Elementary School Principals.

Addresses Club

Miss Cora E. Wadsworth, demonstration teacher in the fourth grade at the van den Berg School of Practice spoke before the Sorosis Women's Club at Kingston on the topic, "Marionettes as They Are Used in Education," on November 20. She has also attended the Progressive Education Meeting at the Biltmore Hotel, New York city.

At the meetings the results of eight years of progressive education were discussed and it was pointed out that children taught by the progressive method are better socially adapted to life than children taught by the old method.

Dr. Will Lectures

Dr. Will, head of the education department, has been giving a series of five lectures every Tuesday in the churches of Ellenville on the subject, "Methods and Materials on Religious Education."

To Have Directory

The State Normal School at New Paltz is preparing an alumni directory for its 6,000 former students. The publication, known as the Paltzaga, will include a history of the Normal School and a pictorial section devoted to the present activities and the personnel of the school, as well as the names and addresses of its alumni.

Questionnaires have been sent to former students soliciting complete and up-to-date information for the Paltzaga. At the same time a special pre-publication price for the book is being offered.

This is the first directory of alumni published since 1916. The Paltzaga will make its debut at the annual alumni luncheon in New York city, March 9, 1941. The book, planned in the style of recent New Paltz yearbooks, is the work of a faculty committee headed by Edgar Beebe with student assistants, cooperating with the Alumni Association.

Meeting Is Postponed

The committee having in charge the American Legion veterans mobilization announced that the meeting scheduled to be held in the Memorial building on Tuesday evening, December 17, has been postponed. Joseph Sills, chairman of the committee, states that meetings will not be resumed until after the first of the year.

Queer Feelings
May Mean Your Nerves Need Care

Treat with Understanding

How bewildered the victim of "nerves" often feels!

Subject to mysterious aches, spells of depression, indigestion—but told by her family that it's all imagination—no wonder she thinks she's "going crazy."

"Nerves" are as real as a broken bone and if you are the high-strung vital type you are especially vulnerable.

You are likely to do everything too tensely, pour out your emotions too lavishly. Then you fritter away the energies which could make you more charming and successful than the stolid type; you're left a prey to ills, a thousand and nameless fears.

But, like a broken bone, your "nerves" will yield to intelligent care. Schedule your day. Don't give to one task so much energy you haven't enough left for another. If you find yourself emotionally wrought up over some family incident get a new perspective by paying a call, going to a movie.

Learn, too, what part diet and physical ills such as eyestrain and anemia play in "nerves."

In our 32-page booklet, a well-known physician explains the physical and psychological causes of "nerves." Gives advice on overcoming worry, indigestion, insomnia, other nervous ailments. Describes proper diet, body care.

Send 10¢ in coin for your copy of OVERCOMING "NERVES" AND EVERY-DAY HEALTH PROBLEMS to Kingston Daily Freeman, Home Service, 635 Sixth Avenue, New York, N. Y.

Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

No Peace Prize

Oslo, Norway (Via Berlin), Dec. 16 (AP)—The Nobel peace prize will not be awarded this year, it was announced today. Before the war, Nobel peace award winners were selected by a committee of five named by the Storting, parliament of Norway, now Nazi-occupied.

The last individual to win it was British Viscount Cecil of Chelwood in 1937. It went to the Nansen International Office for Refugees at Geneva in 1938 and was not conferred last year. There were no Nobel peace prizes either from 1914 until 1919, when Woodrow Wilson won it, except for an award in 1917 to the International Red Cross.

Courage
Press on! Though mists obscure the steep and rugged way, And clouds of doubt beset, soon dawns the brighter day. Keep on! Though hours be long and days deep-fraught with woe, Let patience have her perfect work and vanquish every foe. Hope on! Though all seems lost and storms beat high, Have faith! Be still and know that God is nigh. Fight on! Though fear assaults and panic grips the heart, The battle you will surely win if you play well your part. —Grenville Kleiser

Friend—You're a Scotchman. How is it you don't play golf? Sandy—Oh, I used to. But I gave it up several years ago. Friend—Why? Sandy—I lost my ball.

The world asks: "Did you win?" The Recording Angel asks: "How did you play the game?"

Mother—After all, he's only a boy, and boys will sow their wild oats. Father—Yes, but I wouldn't mind if he didn't mix so much rye with it.

The boss may not know his job as well as he might but he knew enough to get to be boss. Suitor (sighing)—Well, since you don't want to marry me, perhaps you'll return my ring. Sweet Young Thing (facing)—If you must know, your jeweler has called for it already.

Our Affairs
Must we despair because it seems that chaos rank and senseless. Spoils our nation's greatest dreams and leaves us all defenseless. No, no, my friend, this is the thing we must not—dare not do; Despair can never mend—nor bring a clearer, saner view To the world. But faith and grit can change the human mind, And make a better stab at it than anything you'll find. Anywhere in all this mess. So friends, let's staunchly try To help the world bring back success by building courage high.

Friend—I suppose you enjoy being married? Bride—Oh, yes. Its great fun. You know my husband is an artist. Yesterday we had a guessing game. He painted a picture and I cooked something for dinner—and we both guessed what the things were intended for.

We may be right in considering it a case of true love when a woman cleans her husband's pipe. She might, just possibly, have mistaken it for her own.

Husband (snapping angrily)—Well, at any rate, I'm a man of my word. I do call a spade a spade. Wife—Maybe, but you don't call a club a club; you call it working late.

Father—See that you leave the party at a reasonable hour. No more coming home with the milkman, young lady.

Daughter—Of course not, Dad. He won't be there.

Dad gave Mother cotton stockings. Mother gave Dad a piece of her mind.

Harold—How's the wife, George? George—She's just had quinsy. Harold—How many is that you've got now?

May The Star That Led The Wise Men To Where The Christ Child Lay Lead You In All Its Brightness To A Happy Christmas Day.

Junior—Daddy, what's a court of last resort? Daddy—Courting an old maid, my boy.

We are all agreed that unpunctuality is a vile habit, but can't we do something about it?

Who Killed Aunt Maggie?

By MEDORA FIELD

Chapter 35
Denial
YESTERDAY: Two murders have brought Sally and Bill's houseparty to the verge of hysteria. Lieutenant Gregory still thinks that Bill killed Aunt Maggie, but it looks now as if Claire, one of their friends, has done it. The second victim, glamorous Eve Benedict, has just been found lying in her room, and she has been stabbed with a dart from the playroom downstairs. Claire was seen holding the dart after Eve's scream had brought another guest into the room.

Chapter 35
Denial

WE sat in a sort of frozen silence. Then Alice said, "Yes, that's what she said. Can you blame me for screaming when I saw Eve all covered with blood— and Claire started toward me with that horrible dart in her hand?"

"I had no intention of hurting you, Alice," said Claire, her voice edged with contempt. "I just wanted to stop your hysterics, if possible."

"But the dart," interposed Lieutenant Gregory. "It was lying on the floor when we came upstairs."

"It fell," Alice explained. "I tried to take it away from her and it fell."

"Miss Harper," said Lieutenant Gregory, leaning toward Claire in that way I had learned to dread, "suppose you tell us exactly what happened from the time you first went to Mrs. Benedict's room."

"You don't have to go through this, Claire," Kirk interrupted savagely. "Just refuse to answer." Claire gave him a curious look, then her gaze shifted to Lieutenant Gregory and under his probing stare her face went white and her hands flew to her throat. "Oh," she gasped. "You think I killed her. But I didn't!"

I drew a long, choking sigh of relief. In fact, there was an audible lessening of tension in the room. It was like a scene in the theatre, actually, where everyone has been sitting on the edge of his seat and then suddenly the play is over and the lights go on and you realize it was all just make-believe.

Only, in this instance it was not a play. I may have imagined it, but it seemed to me that even Lieutenant Gregory seemed a little relieved at Claire's horrified denial. Certainly his voice had lost a shade of its gruffness when he said, "But the dart? How did you happen to have it in your hand?"

"Don't—don't ask me that," Claire shuddered.

"But Miss Harper, you must remember, we are trying to clear up a murder."

"I know—I know. But it is so horrible."

"Can't we postpone this?" Bob demanded angrily. "Miss Harper has just told you she didn't kill Mrs. Benedict. Isn't that enough?"

Claire smiled at him wanly. "It's all right," she said. "I'll try not to be so silly." Claire's hands pushed back her Titian hair; she shut her eyes, and long dark lashes swept her cheek. Then looking up at Lieutenant Gregory in unconscious appeal, she said simply, "When I thought Eve failed to hear my knock, I pushed open her door and went in. Again Claire's hands flew to her throat. "She wasn't quite dead—"

"Did she say anything?" Lieutenant Gregory demanded, straining forward. And I think we all held our breath, waiting for Claire's answer.

Slowly she shook her head. "Not—not anything I could understand. But her eyes—they seemed to be begging me to do something. I saw the dart—and the blood. I knew she wanted me to—remove the dart. At first I thought I could not bear to touch it, but I knew I must—"

"She didn't say anything?" Lieutenant Gregory asked again.

Death Intervenes

"No, she didn't say anything. I asked her who did it. I said, 'Who, Eve, who?' But she could not speak; and as I stood there with the dart in my hand, there was a strange, gurgling sound in her throat and her head slipped to one side and I knew she must be dead."

"It was horrible," Claire shuddered. "I knew I should be sorry for anyone who was so hated that she had been murdered. But I couldn't be. Not just then, anyway. And I thought that at least she would never bother me again. That—that was when I said—what I did. Then I heard a sound which I thought came from the bathroom, and I was terribly frightened, for I was sure it must be the murderer. I didn't know what to do. Then I realized Alice was in the room and I knew I must have been mistaken about hearing anyone in the bathroom."

"Please tell us how you were standing when Miss Dunbar came in the room. Could you see both the bath and the hall doors?"

"I couldn't see either. But—as though she suddenly realized where his question might lead—I am sure Alice came in from the hall. That door was—was much nearer. Besides, it was open when I turned around and saw Alice, and I had pushed it shut before I saw Eve on the chaise longue."

"What was the purpose of your call on Mrs. Benedict?"

"I just wanted to speak to her."

"You were just dropping in for a little—social chat?"

"Yes—that is, not exactly. I dug my nails into Bill's hand until he winced and gave me an indignant frown. But why couldn't Claire have stopped when she said "Yes?"

"What do you mean, not exactly?" Lieutenant Gregory bore down.

This time it was Kirk who broke a lance for Claire, and I thought Lieutenant Gregory was going to try to break him in two with his bare hands right there. But he restrained himself and in answer to Kirk's hot-headed interference as to why the question should be asked, Lieutenant Gregory patiently reminded him that we had had two murders in less than twenty-four hours. "The situation warrants a little discomfort for the guests, if necessary in clearing things up," he added sarcastically. Turning again to Claire, he asked, "Miss Harper, do you mind telling us the nature of your call on Mrs. Benedict?"

"Yes, I do mind very much," Claire admitted, "but I suppose I must. Mr. Dunbar and I—and she paused to seek courage in a glance toward Bob—"had just announced our engagement to be married. Mrs. Benedict had been—interested in Mr. Dunbar for some—"

"Mrs. Benedict is unmarried then?"

"She is divorced," Claire explained. "She disapproved of our engagement and—was most insulting at lunch today."

"Yes?"

"I went to see her to tell her—"

Claire's voice trailed off into silence.

"To tell her what?" Lieutenant Gregory barked, and I was not so certain now that he believed in Claire's innocence. Beauty in distress might sway him as any mortal man, but murder was murder. And, as he had so aptly expressed it, we had had two murders in less than twenty-four hours.

Explanation
CLAIRE gazed around the room helplessly and her face, which had been so white, was now dyed crimson. "I wanted to tell Eve—" her voice sank to a throaty whisper—"to keep hands off."

"And what did she say?"

"Don't answer that, Claire," Kirk cried out quickly.

Claire gave him a little smile of gratitude, while Lieutenant Gregory turned on him furiously. "Mr. Pierce, I must ask you to keep out of this or I shall have to put you under arrest."

"But, Officer," Mr. Marshall interposed reasonably. "Miss Harper has her legal rights. Without advice of counsel, she is not compelled to answer questions which afterward might be used against her."

"It's all right," said Claire weakly. "I've already told you what happened. I knocked on the door, then called out to ask if I might come in. When I got no answer I opened the door, thinking Eve was in the bathroom. And there she was. Claire shut her eyes again and the long dark lashes lay quivering on her cheeks. "What I meant to do when I removed the dart and saw that she was dead was to go downstairs and tell somebody—"

"But you did not?"

"No, I've told you. Alice came in and—got excited."

"When you asked Mrs. Benedict who had stabbed her, why did you think she had been murdered? Why didn't you think of suicide?"

Claire's eyes widened and she shook her head. "It just wouldn't occur to anyone who knew her," she said.

"Explain that remark, please."

"But—but—"

"Lieutenant," asked Bill, and Lieutenant Gregory turned toward him impatiently. "May I speak for Miss Harper? What she means is that Mrs. Benedict was not very popular. She had an unfortunate gift for sarcasm and an equally unfortunate desire to put people in their places. I think she rather enjoyed stirring up trouble at times."

"She had a knack for making enemies?" the officer suggested.

"Something like that," Bill agreed.

"But she wasn't like that all the time. I somehow felt called upon to say, I suppose in justice to the dead. 'Sometimes she could be quite generous and agreeable. I think—I floundered—that perhaps she had an inferiority complex. She seemed to want things just because someone else wanted them—just to show that she could have them. I suppose—"

I happened to glance at Mr. Dodson, who had spoken no word since the questioning began. He was nodding his head. "I rather think Mrs. Stuart is right," he said.

"But," Bill went on, "naturally when she went around stepping on people's toes, they were not going to sit down and try to figure all this out and feel sorry for her."

"And this time," Lieutenant Gregory concluded, "she stepped too hard on somebody's toes?"

"Oh, I don't know about that," I blabbed. "Perhaps it was just an accumulation of things. Perhaps it was suicide. Or maybe she knew too much. She told me this morning that she thought she knew who killed Aunt Maggie."

Trying to cover up on any inadvertent suggestion that it was Claire's toes Eve had stepped on, I blundered along, realizing too late by the electrified atmosphere of the room that I had—Bessie would say—"opened my mouth and put my foot in it."

Several Local Men Transferred, Says Letter From Dix

Mayor C. J. Heiselman has received a letter from Private Casimir Lukaszewski, one of the members of the first quota sent from Kingston to Fort Dix at Wrightstown, N. J.

The letter in part reads: "I'm at Fort Dix, but the other boys have been transferred to different places. We slept in tents for eight days, then they started to split the gang. It was pretty tough sleeping in the tents, but we stuck it out."

"I am now in Headquarters Company. My work is in the processing building. They tell me here that I may stay here for the year. We live in barracks. They are all new buildings two-stories high."

"The cats here are good, only they feed us too much. We have church services every Sunday."

"Most of the boys here are college men. Some are school teachers, some young lawyers, etc. I am glad to get in with a bunch like this."

"We were taught to drill while we were in tents, but here in barracks we do not drill as yet. Our clothes do not fit so good, but we will get better ones later. The weather is cold and we have a little snow."

"Eddie Wroblewski, one of our boys was sent to Fort Niagara. I do not know where the rest were sent."

"We get up at 6 a. m., breakfast at 7 a. m., then we do odd jobs. Wednesday we will be busy. We expect a gang of rookies here and we have to fit them out with clothes."

"The menu for Sunday's breakfast was sausage, French fried potatoes, toast, bread, grapes, coffee and a half pint of milk and cereal."

"The dinner that day was mashed potatoes, peas, Virginia ham, ice cream, pie, milk, coffee, toast and bread."

"So you see we are eating good."

Division to Make Bid for 1,500 Men; Visit City Tuesday

Chinese guns. A trailer carrying a loudspeaking system also will be used.

Besides the military equipment a motorcycle scout detail along with 30 men from the First Division and five from the recruiting service will arrive in this city to take part.

It was announced also this morning that the equipment will remain in Kingston until noon. This demonstration is being held to enlist enough men to put the First Division at war-time strength.

The First Division is famed for smashing the Prussian guard at Cantigny in the first World War. The detail is visiting Yonkers and Poughkeepsie today and will go to Newburgh tomorrow afternoon.

Mexican Indians Drink Pulque

The universal beverage of the Mexican Indians is pulque, a fermented product of the maguey, or century plant, which is generally produced under the most appalling unhygienic conditions, Nathaniel Weyl, author of Woodstock, N. Y., says in a symposium on Latin-American culture published by the Columbia University Press.

"The almost ubiquitous lack of sanitary drinking water has stimulated the pulque habit," according to Mr. Weyl, who reports that Otomi peasants with whom he talked admitted that they consumed as much as seven quarts daily. "The Mexican Indian baby is given the same lethal diet as his parents. In some regions, infants are weaned with a cloth dipped in corn whiskey."

The Mexican Indian's diet, it is pointed out, is based on maize and brown beans. Chili is introduced to stimulate the digestive juices, but it has a caustic effect on the stomach and intestines.

Irish Fought for Freedom

The Irish threw their fortunes, their spirited energies, and themselves into the flaming cause of freedom. The spirit of '76 was an Irish spirit. . . . Kneeling at the feet of independence.

Thirteen of the fifty-six signers of the deathless Declaration of Independence were Irish or descendants of Irish. The Irish were in the publishing realm before our government was wrought. Hugh Gaine founded the Mercury in New York in 1775. John Dunlap published the first daily newspaper in Philadelphia, and John Daly Burke founded the first daily in Boston. In 1784 Matthew Carey, friend of Franklin, established the Pennsylvania Herald. Horace Greeley established and edited the New York Tribune.

Footprints on Ceiling

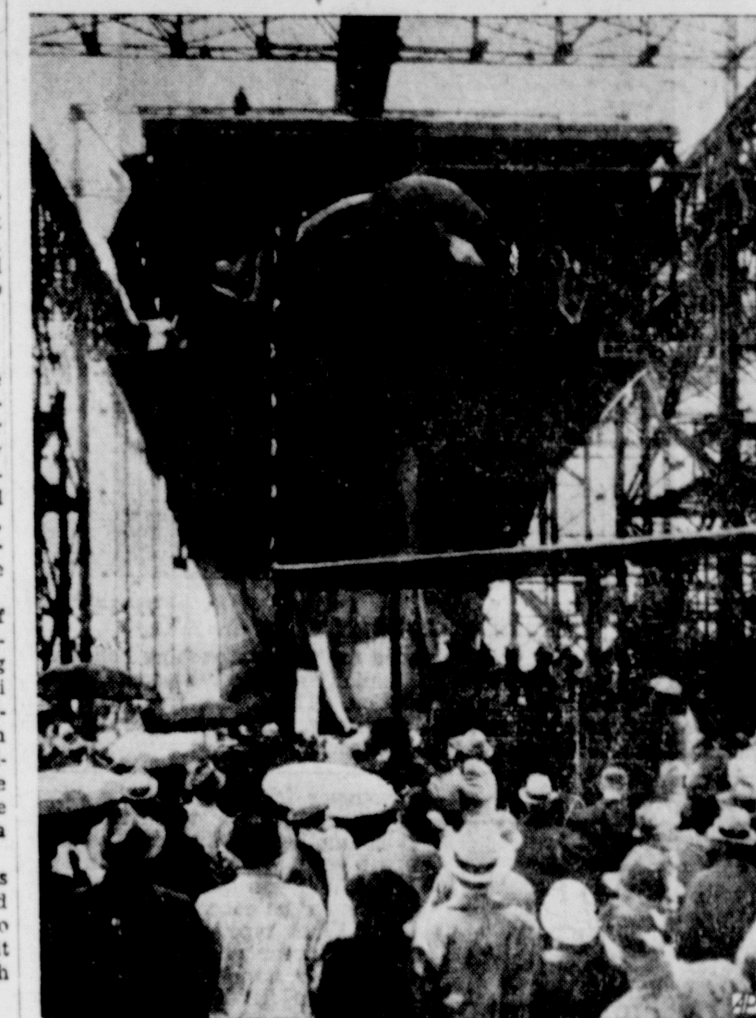

Footprints in the sands of time? No! footprints on the ceiling of the Hall of Geology in the Buffalo Museum of Science. They were placed there because that's how they were originally found, protruding from the lower surface of the sandstone roof of a coal mine near Cedargrove, Colo., after a seam of coal had been removed. The footprints are perhaps the largest in the world, measuring 34 inches in length. They are of a gigantic reptile with a stride of 15 feet 2 inches. "The great reptile which possessed this enormous walking stride, the longest on record, had three toes and must have towered more than 30 feet in height," Irving G. Reimann, curator at the museum, explained.

NEW U. S. AIRCRAFT CARRIER LAUNCHED

An umbrella-dotted crowd at Newport News, Va., watches the launching of the aircraft carrier U.S.S. Hornet, giving the navy a total of seven aircraft carriers, a number equal to that of Japan. The ship, designed to carry some 83 planes and capable of making about 35 knots, will cost an estimated $40,000,000 when her armament, including eight five-inch anti-aircraft guns and 32 anti-aircraft machine guns, is installed.

British Possession of Port of Salum Would Aid Anglo Supply Shipment

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

The Anglo-Allied forces both in Libya and Albania were smashing the Italians back today in a defeat which, if continued, is likely to kill the chances of the Axis powers to break Britain's control of the vital Mediterranean zone.

From the British standpoint this strategic area is second in importance only to the British Isles themselves. As the battle of the Mediterranean goes, so may go the whole conflict.

Fighting in northern Africa has reached Italy's Libyan soil in the vicinity of the important port of Salum. Possession of this harbor would enable the British to rush supplies forward, thereby permitting continuance of the drive into enemy territory.

The British fleet continues to do Yeoman's service by shelling Fascist forces, communications and bases from the neighboring sea. It is an ironic circumstance for the Italians that this navy, which is the keystone of the British control of the Mediterranean, should be all but running ashore into the desert to beat the unhappy Fascists.

Virginia Gayda, authoritative Fascist writer, is using a wide brush to paint a silver lining into the Greek and Egyptian clouds of defeat, declared that they "are only episodes in the entire picture of the war."

"They are not Italy's whole war," he adds, "nor do they embody all Italy's offensive possibilities."

By way of emphasis Signor Gayda remarks resentfully that "Britain is carrying on her war with the vast means permitted by her riches."

Astute Observations

Those are very astute observations by one of Europe's most brilliant commentators. However, he presumably is writing to quiet the concern of an uneasy Italian public, and doesn't carry out an analysis of the position. Had he done so he must have arrived at this point:

It is precisely because of Britain's tremendous resources, plus her control of the seas, that she is banking on winning the war in the long run—that is, with the material assistance of America. The conflict is likely to be decided by economic strangulation and starvation, and the side which has the reserves is the side which will win.

It is true that Greece and Libya aren't "Italy's whole war." Britain took a far worse beating in Flanders than those to which Italy thus far has been subjected—and Britain is far stronger today than she was at that time. Italy may come through, too, but there is a vast difference between Italy and Britain. That difference lies in those resources.

Mussolini is in grave danger of being strangled by the blockade. He is in a bad way economically, and is short of many essential supplies, including food.

The Fascist campaigns against Greece and Egypt were undertaken for the express purpose of breaking Britain's naval control of the Mediterranean—of smashing that ever-tightening blockade. The two operations were to be synchronized, and their success meant Britain's probable downfall.

Fascist Debacles

Both these operations have produced Fascist debacles—and the end is not yet. Italy's danger is that she has muffed the strategic operations which would have freed her from the strangulation of the blockade. There is a great question whether she has the power of resistance which will enable her to recover as Britain did.

Then there's another aspect to this picture. This is that while the world at large generally speaks of Britain as waging war alone against the Axis powers, actually the empire has many staunch allies.

Who but small Greece has so thoroughly trounced Italy as to enable Britain to inaugurate a great offensive in the Mediterranean? And fighting with the British in Egypt and elsewhere are the citizens of numerous other countries. The offering in some cases is the widow's mite, but it is their all.

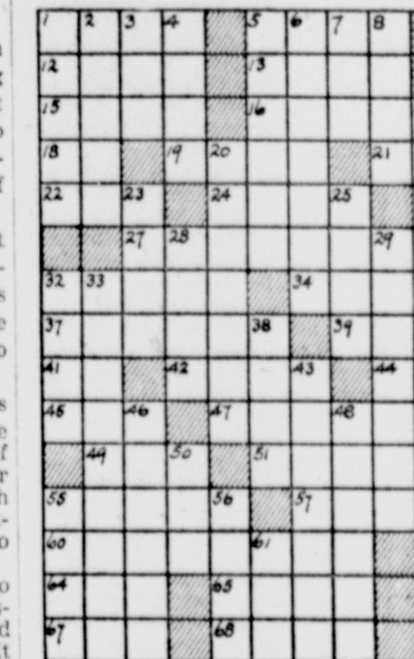

We mustn't forget that there are in London the exiled governments of Belgium, Czechoslovakia, Poland, Norway and the Netherlands. Then there is the committee of Free Frenchmen under General De Gaulle.

So it's not Britain alone, but Britain and her allies. Not overlooking that the various nations of the empire are in this war up to their necks.

And finally, Britain has the moral backing of many neutral

British Acquired Huge Quantities Of Italians' Arms

big enough to cover a three-ring circus.

In the three months they occupied the region the Italians planted water pipelines along the 70-mile strip of desert and built roads, fortifications and camps. All this was labor lost, for the strip now has been wrested from them by the numerically weaker British forces.

Nibeiwa, 15 miles south of Sidi Barrani, fell in an hour of fighting Monday morning and this was the key to victory. A captured Italian officer told me that the fighting on this circular plateau, taken by surprise, was "the nearest thing to hell ever seen on this earth."

So great was the surprise that Fascist tanks never even got into action. Italian General Pietro Maletti tried to rally his picked forces for a counter-attack but he fell with a bullet in his chest and died soon after the British reached him.

Horses stampeded in the camp, British tanks raced around inside with guns blazing, British artillery was spraying Italian trenches and British infantry roared in with rifles and machine guns firing and bayonets flashing.

Not Man Escaped

The Italian surrender was inevitable. Not a man escaped.

Then the British went on to take the east and west forts at Tummar, where stronger resistance, including a counter-attack by 12 tanks, was encountered but overcome. That night the tired British fighters bivouacked in the desert between here and Tummar.

While they rested the fleet shelled Sidi Barrani throughout the night, giving the Italians a preview of what was to come.

With the dawn the British column, made up entirely of English and Scottish regiments—started for Sidi Barrani with tanks leading the way.

Two-thirds of a mile south of the town they came under the fire of Italians entrenched on a ridge. The Fascist forces—two legions of Blackshirts and a division of Libyans—outnumbered the attacking British about four to one.

Sidi Barrani was encircled at the time since another unit had cut through to the coast west of the town and another had just taken Maktila on the coast 10 miles to the east—but the attacking troops did not know this.

After seven hours of hard fighting in which the British said the Blackshirts fought well and inflicted considerable casualties, the British drove them back and took the ridge at 2 p. m.

"When we got on the ridge we saw the town and the blue sea behind it and this gave us confidence," an officer said.

"But the tanks left us to make a flank attack on the Italians, so we had less protection."

"We owe a lot to the RAF. They kept enemy planes off us for most of the time."

"Then a terrible dust storm came up and it was a blessing as the dust made us invisible to the enemy at 200 yards."

Outfought and weary, various Italian detachments began to give in and by nightfall the village was in the hands of the British, though nations, who are following the lead of the United States. That moral influence isn't just a song lost on the desert air. Despite the chaotic condition of much of the world, the time hasn't passed when moral influence lacks power.

Auxiliary Has December Meeting

The Women's Auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A. met at the "Y" Friday afternoon. The president, Mrs. George H. DuBois, conducted the meeting and Mrs. Irving W. Scott led a Christmas devotional service. During the business meeting some interesting reports of recent activities were given.

The "Y" Carnival, held early in the month under the chairmanship of Mrs. Robert L. Sisson and Mrs. Adam Thiel, was successful both socially and financially. The serving of meals during the New York State Grange convention was also a new and pleasant experience, under the direction of Mrs. DuBois and many expressions of appreciation were received from the Grangers.

After the business meeting a program was presented by Miss Jessie Kaprielian who sang two solos, "Ave Maria" by Schubert and "The Virgin's Slumber Song" by Max Reber. She was accompanied by Miss Joan Craig. Mrs. Adam Thiel also gave a reading "Why the Chimes Ring." At the close of the program tea was served and a social hour enjoyed.

Burger-Wood

Miss Gladys Mae Wood, daughter of Mrs. James Schofield of Newburgh became the bride of Charles Kenneth Burger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Olive Burger of Mountainville Saturday afternoon at a ceremony performed at the home of the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander P. Speers, 317 Wall street. The Rev. Arthur E. Oudemool officiated. The bride was gown in blue chiffon velvet with a corsage of Jasmine roses. She was attended by Miss Evelyn Wilson of Cornwall. Walter G. Burger, brother of the groom was best man. A reception was held after the ceremony with guests from many surrounding towns. The home was decorated with ferns, gladioli and asters.

Students Have Party

Members of the weekly social dancing class of the Y. W. C. A. held a Christmas party at the association building Saturday evening. The group enjoyed various dancing games after which refreshments were served. Those attending were the Misses Mary Darling, Jean Davis, Dorothy and Doris Fronefeld, Jane Hutton, Anna Jones, Helen Larkin, Mary Frances Matthews, Marilyn Roe, Charlotte Cooper, Veronica Melanson, Florence Moitz, Elizabeth Mack, Marion Raliff, Maureen

Troy, Peggy Whalen and Janet Wieber. Other members of the class who attended the party Saturday were Clyde Wonderly, Jr., Robert Weber, Thatcher Wood, Robert Winne, Michael Larkin, William McVey, Robert MacKinnon, George Moore, Robert O'Reilly, William Kinch, Joseph Jordon, Jack Herlihy, Walter Joyce, Edward Glynn, Stanley Dempsey, Robert Corrigan and William Arnold.

De Molay Banquet

The annual DeMolay alumni banquet will be held Monday evening, December 30, at the Masonic Temple. Any former DeMolay members wishing to attend is asked to notify Sam Messinger, 79 West O'Reilly street.

Personal Notes

Mrs. Laurie Hillberg and children of Seattle, Wash., are spending some time with Mrs. Hillberg's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Hall of Richmond Park. Mrs. Hillberg expects to remain in Kingston until she can join Captain Hillberg who is assigned to duty at Anchorage, Alaska.

Mrs. W. Scott Smith and Miss Agnes Smith of Hurley avenue entertained at a dinner at their home on Sunday for Bundles for Britain. Covers were laid for three.

Miss Sarah DeWitt of New York city has been spending the weekend at her home in Hurley.

William J. Venno of Cape Rosier, Me., is visiting his son and daughter-in-law, the Rev. and Mrs. Maurice W. Venno at St. John's rectory.

Mr. Thomas McCormick of Poughkeepsie spent the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Darrow, of Josephine avenue.

Dr. and Mrs. Henry L. Bibby entertained a few friends informally for dinner on Saturday at their home on Wall street.

Club Notices

Lowell Club

The Christmas party of Lowell Club, scheduled to be held at the home of Mrs. Frederick Snyder, 44 Clinton avenue, Tuesday afternoon, will be held at the home of Mrs. Clyde E. Wonderly, 49 Emerson street, due to the illness of Mrs. Snyder.

Girl Scout Council

The meeting of the Girl Scout Council of Kingston District which was to have been held Tuesday will not be held until after the holidays. The council will then meet at the home of the chairman, Mrs. A. DuBois Rose, and discuss plans for the year.

Doer's Class

The Doer's Class of Trinity Methodist Church will hold its Christmas supper and meeting at the church parlors Tuesday evening at 6 o'clock. All members are invited to attend.

HOME BUREAU

Modena Unit

Modena, Dec. 16—The Modena Home Bureau met Thursday at Mrs. Lillian Paltridge's home in an all-day session. After the pot-luck lunch at noon a discussion on the family life project was led by Mrs. Lester Arnold, local leader of the project. A review was conducted of previous work on the subject and Mrs. Arnold gave a talk on highlights under discussion at the State College at Ithaca, which Mrs. Arnold attended last summer.

Those attending the meeting were Mrs. Harry Sutton, Mrs. Harold Dinger, Mrs. Raymond Sharp, Mrs. Jonah Rhodes, Mrs. Siah Roosa, Mrs. Clayton Mackey, Mrs. William Barret, Mrs. Winfield Jenkins of Clintondale; Mrs. Myron Coons, Mrs. Albert Butler, Miss Elizabeth Foster of Platteville; Mrs. George Alheusen, Mrs. A. Hyatt, Mrs. Gershom Mount, Mrs. Eldred Smith and daughter, Genevieve, of Ardonia; Mrs. Joseph Hasbrouck, Mrs. Lester Arnold, Mrs. Orville Seymour, Mrs. Frank Black, Mrs. Christian Matheisen, Mrs. Fred Barnard, Miss Nellie Alheusen, Mrs. Ernst Kittleberger, Mrs. Myron Shultis and the hostess, Mrs. Lillian Paltridge. Owing to the inability of two members to assist on the committee for the card and game party scheduled for Tuesday evening, December 17, at Mrs. Lester Arnold's, two other members, Mrs. Oscar Smith and Miss Marguerite Smith, were named to fill the vacancies.

Kingston Unit

The regular meeting of the Kingston Unit of Home Bureau will be held Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock for the evening session in connection with the braided rugs project. The meeting place has been changed from the municipal auditorium to the Home Bureau office and will be in charge of Mrs. John Cuff. The Christmas party planned by the Home Bureau members will be held Thursday, December 17, at 2 o'clock at the Farm Bureau office, 74 John street, instead of at the Governor Clinton Hotel as formerly planned. Members will make Christmas wreaths and a social hour will be enjoyed. Each member is requested to bring a small gift for exchange with another member. A full attendance is required, as plans for the formation of a book club will be completed.

Parties Are Canceled

Due to the illness of Harold Weston, boys' secretary of the Y. M. C. A., the boys' parties scheduled for this week have been canceled. These are the father-son banquet Tuesday, the Rotary party Wednesday and the Schwenck Club party Thursday.

Making Holiday Dance Plans

MRS. THEODORE PECK

One of the dances being planned for the approaching holidays is the annual Christmas dance of the Junior Group of Wiltwyck Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution. The dance, for which Mrs. Theodore Peck of Hurley is the chairman, will be held Friday, December 27, in the chapter house on Crown street.

HOW TO ADDRESS CHRISTMAS CARDS WHEN PROFESSIONAL NAMES ARE USED IS EXPLAINED BY EMILY POST

Would Be Sent to House Even Though Business Friend Did Not Know Husband or Wife

Amongst all the dozens of last-minute letters asking about Christmas preparations, there seems to be only this one letter to which my answer may yet be received in time: "I am a business woman and, since marriage, have continued to use my maiden name professionally. Because so many of my business friends do not know me in private life, I am sending them Christmas cards in my maiden name. Now at the last minute I don't know exactly what to do about addressing the envelopes in many cases. Many of these business associates are married but I do not know the husband or wife. The fact that my own husband is not being included on my cards makes me wonder about the necessity of including a husband or wife who is a stranger to me. And yet, if I don't send the card to Mr. and Mrs. Blank, may I send it to the house?"

The answer to this is very simple: A card sent in your professional name to some one whose husband (or wife) is a stranger would be sent to the business friend alone even though addressed to the house. And if in any of these cases you are using professional names for them, which are different from their private-life names, you would of course send such cards to the office and not to the house.

A Coming-Out Party

Dear Mrs. Post: My niece is now grown and I am giving her her first big party, as I always promised her I would do. She is asking three of her best friends to receive with us, and most of the guest list comprises her own younger friends—with the exception of about a dozen friends of her mother's and mine. The party will be an afternoon tea with dancing. Will you answer a few questions for us concerning the party: (1) What type of dresses do the friends wear who have been asked to receive, and do they go without hats? (2) Who buys them, as well as my niece, the flowers they carry? (3) Do I stand first in the receiving line and my niece or her mother next? (4) My niece wants to know whether she has to stand receiving until after every one has arrived—which may mean all the afternoon—or whether she, and her three young friends in the line, may leave us after awhile to dance.

Answer: (1) They and your niece wear long dresses and go without hats. (2) Asking her three friends "to receive" merely means that they will be dressed more elaborately than the other guests and in this way be set apart as the special friends of the debutante. But they do not stand in line and therefore carry no flowers. At least I have never heard of their doing so. On the other hand, the debutante herself usually receives many bouquets. The more the better from her point of view because many bouquets suggest many beaux—even though many of the flowers are sent to her from the family's friends and devoted relatives! She usually chooses one special bouquet to hold, or sometimes she changes about and holds different ones during the afternoon. (3) Your niece stands next to you and her mother beyond her. (4) The debutante has to receive at least until most of the guests have arrived. When there is a lull in the arrivals, she may dance if she stays near enough to you and her mother to notice when more people arrive and to come back quickly and help you receive them. FROCK HAS EXTENDED SHOULDERS

MARIAN MARTIN
PATTERN 9539

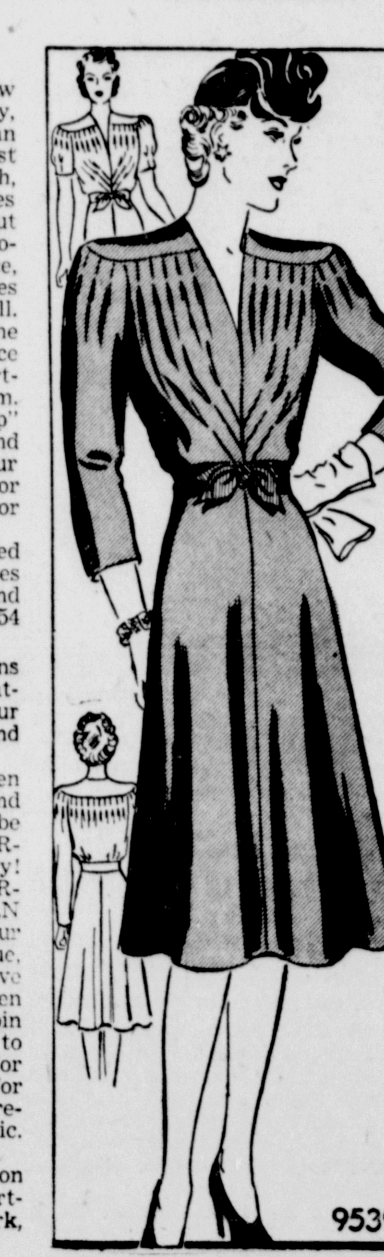

Places to go? Start off the New Year round of festivities smartly, in this beautifully styled Marian Martin frock, Pattern 9539. A most becoming feature is that smooth, one-piece extended yoke that gives a broad-shouldered effect without puffiness. The wide shoulders, together with the bloused bodice, nicely accent the slim skirt lines and make your hips look small. Darts or gathers surround the yoke to hold in the soft, bodice lines, aided by "arrow-head" darting down the front bodice seam. Let the belt bring a "dress-up" note by making the front inset and tie in ribbon contrast. Take your choice of short three-quarter or long sleeves. And hurry—send for your pattern TODAY!

Pattern 9539 may be ordered only in misses' and women's sizes 16, 18, 20, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46. Size 36 requires 3½ yards 54 inch fabric.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS in coins for this MARIAN MARTIN pattern. Be sure to write plainly your SIZE, NAME, ADDRESS, and STYLE NUMBER.

Here's a clever idea! Women who haven't "perfect figures" (and not many of us have), may now be sure of having their smart MARIAN MARTIN frocks fit perfectly! The secret? Just order our SURFIT FOUNDATION PATTERN 9306 in your size, adjust it to your own figure measurements in tissue, cut it out in muslin—and you have a permanent guide to use when making all your frocks. You pin your dress patterns right to it to make necessary changes. Send for Pattern 9306 today! Designed for sizes 14 to 20; 32 to 50. Size 16 requires 3½ yards 36 inch fabric. Price 15c.

The state explained, was imposed upon corporate dividends and income derived from earnings in Wisconsin. The amount was determined by the ratio between Wisconsin earnings and total earnings throughout the United States.

The Supreme Court also refused today to review a decision that a radio station may broadcast phonograph records "in its entirety" of a manufacturer's attempt to restrict such use.

The RCA Manufacturing Company and Paul Whiteman, in separate suits, appealed from the second federal circuit court, which held that property rights in records ended with their sale notwithstanding restrictive notices that records were sold for non-commercial use in homes only.

Whiteman, an orchestra leader, enjoin the W. B. O. Broadcasting Corp., owners of Station WNEW in New York, from broadcasting his records. The RCA suit was based on the company's contention that Whiteman himself had no interest in the records of his orchestral performance because of contracts between the leader and the firm. RCA likewise sought to enjoin the broadcasting of the Whiteman records.

'Jim Crow' Review

The Supreme Court agreed today to review a challenge by Rep. Arthur W. Mitchell, the only negro member of Congress, of the constitutionality of "Jim Crow" railway cars in the south.

Mitchell (D., Ill.) asserted that railroads must furnish accommodations to members of his race equal to those provided white persons traveling in interstate commerce.

His petition was dismissed by the Northern Illinois Federal District Court.

Grant of a Supreme Court review means that argument will be heard in a few weeks and there will follow a final decision.

The decision on power was contrary to the contentions of attorneys general of Virginia and 40 other states that the federal government was attempting to exceed its authority. Invasion of state rights was claimed.

Government attorneys contended the power commission had jurisdiction over hydroelectric projects whenever interstate commerce, flood control or "navigable capacity" of interstate streams was affected.

Appalachian Argument

The Appalachian Company argued that New River was non-navigable and the plant would not

"impaired navigable capacity" of the Kanawha river, into which New River runs, or the Ohio river, into which the Kanawha runs.

One of the principal issues of the long-litigated suit was whether the power commission could legally take over (or recapture) the plant at the end of the 50-year license period provided by the federal power act.

The government would pay the company its net investment in the property or the fair value, whichever is the lowest, at the end of the 50 years.

Other provisions of the proposed license which the company contested required it to pay excess profits, determined by the commission, to the United States.

None of these, the company asserted, had any "relation to the protection of navigable waters."

After a controversy continuing since 1925, the present suit was instituted by the power commission in 1935 to compel the company to accept the proffered license.

Both the Western Virginia Federal District Court and the Fourth Federal Circuit Court held that New River was non-navigable in interstate commerce and that the project would not obstruct the navigability of any other stream.

Would Defer Talk

Washington, Dec. 16 (AP)—Two unsuccessful contenders for the 1940 Republican presidential nomination—Senators Taft (R., Ohio) and Vandenberg (R., Mich.)—suggested today that talk of a 1944 standard bearer be deferred until after the congressional elections two years hence. Both said their party should concentrate on winning additional House and Senate seats in 1942.

Car Runs Away

According to a police report Roland Lamareaux of Connelly parked his car in front of the rectory of St. Mary's Church shortly after 10 o'clock Saturday night. The brakes became loosened in some manner and the car ran down the Broadway hill into the parked car of Ira Hasbrouck and came to a rest against the retaining wall of St. Mary's Convent. The damage was reported as slight.

British Driving Toward Bardia

tried vainly to gain unoccupied France's consent to dispatch Nazi troops to southern French ports for shipment to Africa to bulwark the Italian defenses.

The Italians said Marshal Graziani was hurrying Fascist troops from deep within Libya to the bitter battle raging in the triangle between Bardia on the coast, Salum, 30 miles east just over the Egyptian border, and Fort Capuzzo, south of Bardia.

British warships harassed Italian efforts to consolidate their defenses along the coastal roads and the RAF bombed and strafed the troops from above.

Request Is Made

The German request to use French ports to embark troops for Africa was made to Chief of State Marshal Petain through Pierre Laval, then vice premier, a few days ago, the Swiss reported. Petain refused and Laval later was dropped from his government, it was said.

France was described in Vichy to be in a "delicate" situation with many French reported fearing all their land might be occupied by the Germans.

The Italian high command said the Fascist submarine Neghelli torpedoed and sank a British cruiser of the 9,100-ton Southampton class off the African coast while acknowledging that a British air attack on Naples Saturday night killed or wounded 50 crewmen aboard an Italian warship of "medium tonnage."

The British admiralty claimed British destroyers operating in the shipping of Bardia, sank the Italian submarine Naiada, 590 tons, when the latter "attempted to interfere."

Clearing weather at many points in Albania facilitated further Greek advances against the Italians there, the Greeks said. Fortifications were smashed near the Yugoslav frontier, and other Greek troops continued their push northward along the Adriatic coast toward Valona, they reported.

Steam Causes Alarm

Escaping steam from the plant of the Ertel Manufacturing Company at Mill street and Broadway avenue, again caused a pedestrian to think the building was on fire, turning in an alarm from Box 2131. The one who turned in the alarm did not wait until the firemen arrived, and his name was not ascertained. Saturday night a quantity of rags was found burning outside the Y. W. C. A. building on Henry street. The smoldering rags were under an open window and the smoke was drawn into the building causing the fire department to be called.

Questionnaires Mailed

With 18 drafted men available to fill Kingston's next quota for the new federal army, the Selective Service Board today mailed out questionnaires to the men with Nos. 192 to 241 inclusive. The board has also notified 10 more drafted men to appear at the American Legion building Tuesday morning for physical examination. At the local board office it was said that it was not expected that Kingston would receive any more quotas before January.

Louis to Fight Novak

Boston, Dec. 16 (AP)—Promoter Mike Jacobs announced today that Joe Louis, world's heavyweight boxing champion, would stage a benefit fight in Kansas City with Tony Novak, young mid-western hopeful, at a date still to be settled. "The fight will come off," Jacobs said, when asked who and when Louis would battle for the benefit of a new and modernistic non-nominational church planned by Dr. Burris Jenkins of Kansas City.

Congratulates Freeman

On Convention Coverage

Editor, The Freeman.

Dear Sir:

When conventions come to Kingston at the invitation of the city they should be treated as honored guests of the community and shown every courtesy. In this way, the good name of Kingston is favorably carried to all corners of the state and valuable good will for our city created. In this way, also, the fame of Kingston as a fine convention city spreads and the more our fame spreads, the more conventions we will get; the more conventions we can get, the more business we will do and the more employment we will create.

It is for these reasons that I always do everything in my power to make our convention visitors feel welcome.

Our local Industrial and Convention Bureau and the local arrangements committee did a splendid job before and during the recent New York State Grange Convention and I thank and congratulate them.

May I also thank and congratulate The Freeman for the fine job you did in welcoming the Grange delegates and in so fully covering, reportorially and pictorially, their proceedings. I heard many of the delegates comment favorably on the courtesies extended by your newspaper and I think this should be brought to your attention because the co-operation of the press is an important part of a successful convention.

Yours Truly,
CONRAD J. HEISELMAN,
Mayor.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Dec. 16 (AP)—Buying timidity returned to the stock market today and leading issues stepped down moderately.

Losses, running to a point or so at the worst, were trimmed near the final hour but real recoveries were few. Dealings were relatively slow throughout, transfers being at the rate of approximately 600,000 shares.

While war and business news seemed encouraging, brokers said, traders generally inclined to proceed carefully pending expected shifts in national defense plans and clarification of the President's comments upon leaving Warm Springs that he would be back in March "if the world survives."

Bonds were uneven, as were major commodities.

Early backward leanings were exhibited by U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Republic Steel, Anaconda, American Smelting, Consolidated Edison, Sears Roebuck, International Harvester, Douglas Aircraft, Chesapeake & Ohio, Eastman Kodak, U. S. Rubber, du Pont and American Can.

Contrarily, Jones & Laughlin Preferred went into new high ground for the year. Resistance also was shown by General Motors, Great Northern, United Aircraft and Standard Oil of N. J.

In the minor losses were posted for Bell Aircraft, Electric Bond & Share, Bath Iron Works, St. Regis Paper and N. J. Zinc. Better actors here were Lake Shore, Gulf Oil and American Gas.

Farmers Are Urged To Be Cautious With Milk Ballot

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 16 (AP)—The New York milkshed's 60,000 dairy farmers, urged to vote on amendments to the federal-state marketing orders, were advised today against "misstatements wearing the camouflage label of friendship."

In a "special appeal" mailed to producers, N. J. Cladakis, New York metropolitan milk marketing administrator, suggested studying carefully eight amendments designed to further stabilize the nation's richest milk market and add $4,800,000 annually to the dairymen's income.

At least one-third of the producers must approve the amendments to make them effective. A mail referendum is to be completed by December 21.

"You must not permit selfish propaganda of whatever source to persuade you to vote against your own best interest," Cladakis wrote. "False statements and subsidized opinions now pouring into the ears of dairymen, especially misstatements wearing the camouflage label of friendship for farmers, make the warning necessary."

One of the major amendments would lift the minimum price of class one or fluid milk from $2.20 per hundred pounds (47 quarts) to $2.45 in April.

Archie Wright, chairman of the Dairy Farmers' Union, which claims 22,000 members in New York, Pennsylvania and Vermont, said he believed the amendments "will not be well received." Delegates to the Metropolitan Cooperative Milk Producers Bargaining Agency, who sought a minimum price of $2.82 voted against the proposals.

Agriculture Department officials in Washington forecast last week suspension of the entire marketing order if the amendments are not approved.

Spell's Case Again Postponed; Is Held In Bail of $15,000

Greenwich, Conn., Dec. 16 (AP)—Joseph Spell, negro-butler-chaufer charged with raping Mrs. John K. Strubing, Jr., his attractive socialite-employer and hurling her into a lonely reservoir, had his case postponed again today until Dec. 24 in town

TIP-OFFS ON

GOOD BASKETBALL

1: Training

By CLAIR BEE

Long Island University Coach

Cleanliness, rest and proper eating are the three major musts for training.

Start the day with a quick warm and cold shower and a brisk run-down. Make after practice showers brief and be sure you are warmly clothed upon leaving the gymnasium.

Your diet should include milk, fish, lean meat, plenty of vegetables, fruit, salads, simple desserts and plenty of water. On game days eat breakfast and lunch at the regular time. The evening meal should be eaten not later than 5:30 and consist of sweet fruits, tea, toast, eggs, and jellies or preserves.

Get nine hours of sleep a night and retire at the same time each night.

C. E. Dartball Results

The Rosendale Christian Endeavor dartball team advanced to within a tie for second place last week by taking two games from Bloomington. Scores of the games were 4-0, 5-2 with Bloomington winning the other by 2 to 1.

Louis Is Expected To Register Early Win Over McCoy

Challenger Is in Good Shape; No Money on McCoy; Louis and Conn Are Next

Boston, Dec. 16 (AP)—Champion Joe Louis is an almost unanimous choice to win by an early knockout tonight in his scheduled 15-round battle with Challenger Al McCoy in the 12th defense of his heavyweight crown.

One of the few dissenting opinions comes from the McCoy camp where the Maine-born battler and his entourage are promising to give Louis a tuss

West Shore Places Bigger Engines in Freight Service

Mohawk Type Locomotives Have Been Transferred to Hudson River Area to Speed Hauls

In an endeavor to increase the efficiency of freight service on the West Shore Railroad, the New York Central last week placed in service on the West Shore division two heavier locomotives.

For several months, reconstruction work has been progressing on the West Shore line. Sections of the right-of-way have been re-ballasted, new and heavier rail laid, trestles strengthened where necessary, 10 new bridges installed, and the signalling system re-vamped for the purpose of increased safety in accommodating longer and faster trains and heavier motive power.

The new locomotives are known under the classification of Mohawk type, L-2, 4-8-2, and came to the West Shore Division from the Mohawk and Hudson Divisions of the New York Central System, where a still heavier type 4-8-2 locomotive has been placed in service.

The Mohawk type, also known as the mountain type on other railroads, gradually will replace the H-5 Mikado 2-8-2 freight locomotives now in service, and are designed to speed up freight traffic on the West Shore Line.

Tests are being made to determine what tonnage the Mohawk type will haul on the West Shore line, which differs from the Mohawk and Hudson Divisions in that the local line has steeper and longer grades. Eastward out of Haverstraw the West Shore has a considerable grade, and it is at this point in the line that the 4-8-2's will receive their greatest tests.

The new locomotives are fired by mechanical stokers, are slightly more than 97 feet long, carry 225 pounds steam pressure, and have a grate area of 75.3 square feet. They are equipped with boosters, and the combined tractive force of the locomotive and booster is rated at 73,280 pounds. They carry 15,000 gallons of water and 28 tons of coal.

Freight traffic on the West Shore Division has increased considerably in the last year, and with the addition of larger motive power, railroad officials believe, according to one official, "that freight service will have an increased efficiency which will give overnight and door-to-door service to all shippers along the West Shore Railroad."

Church Group Meets

The Girls' League for Service of the Bloomingdale Reformed Church held its regular monthly meeting on Friday, December 13, at the home of Miss Georgia Cross.

After the regular meeting a special hour followed in the form of a pre-holiday party with the exchanging of gifts. Refreshments were then enjoyed. The hostess was Miss Georgia Cross. Those in attendance were Mrs. W. K. Haysom, Mrs. C. Hotaling, Mrs. H. Hummel, Georgia Cross, Beulah Dymond, Hilda Ertle, Marion and Natalie Phillips, Norma Duda, Edith Schnieder and Ruth Hotaling.

Lothian's Successor?

Sir Andrew Rae Duncan (above), British minister of supply, was the center of speculation in London recently as the possible successor to the late Lord Lothian as ambassador to the United States.

Holy Name Club Elects Officers

Louis Kolano Is Named Head of Group

Sunday afternoon at the parish school hall the Holy Name of Immaculate Conception elected the following officers: Louis Kolano, president; Paul Argulewicz, vice president; Frances Argulewicz, recording secretary; Walter Tylec, financial secretary; Peter Szecypa, treasurer. John Rylewicz was elected marshal.

At the meeting a communion breakfast was named with President Kolano as the chairman. He will be assisted by Walter Tylec, John Buboltz, Paul Argulewicz. It was also announced that the Boy Scouts in the future would receive monthly holy communion with the Holy Name. This was suggested for the third Sunday. The Scout Master is Frank Zakrzewski with Ted Musialkiewicz as his assistant.

The Rev. Stanislaus Malinowski attended the meeting and acted as moderator throughout the session.

Committee to Meet

All members of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the American Legion who are working on the Mayor's Christmas Cheer Committee are requested to meet Tuesday at the municipal auditorium. There will be workers at the auditorium from 9 o'clock and throughout the remainder of the day.

STOP WINTER DISCOMFORTS Now

CUT FUEL BILLS UP TO 30% HOW?

...By "Window Conditioning" your home—insulating your windows with double-glazed sash or storm windows. Reliable tests prove that the wall of captive air formed between the two panes of glass is ONE OF THE MOST EFFECTIVE TYPES OF INSULATION.

Put in storm sash NOW. They are inexpensive and easy to install... reduce fuel bills up to 30%... pay for themselves in a very few winters. And through the balance of this winter and every winter to come you can enjoy snug warm comfort. Drafts are practically eliminated and healthful humidity can be maintained without the nuisance of foggy windows and excessive moisture that drips down and damages woodwork finishes, draperies and rugs.

You can enjoy the comforts and economies of "Window Conditioning" at surprisingly low cost. And, if you wish, financing can be arranged under F.H.A. with no down payment. Call us or come in today for complete information and an estimate without obligation.
